

Defining for Design

Defining for design as the name suggests is a service that defines context, problem, issue, challenges etc. Once the definition has been made, the right foundation has been established for designing for this context or problem. The Defining requires working with people to establish the context or problem and not getting bogged down by symptoms or a sub-contexts.

